

What graduates of
SOUTH CAROLINA BUSINESS WEEK
say about their experience...

"Entrepreneurialism was my favorite experience at Business Week because I really do want to do everything in the future. All of the activities provided good learning experiences that I believe will help me in the future." Chelsey Allen, 2006 Business Week Graduate, Bluffton High School

"I enjoyed the lectures at Business Week the best because they gave me a good understanding of different business issues I may face in the future. My dad is a business owner, and I would like to work with him eventually. Now I feel like I can teach him a few things! I would definitely recommend Business Week to other students."

Bates Adair, 2007 Business Week Graduate, Clinton High School

"Having the opportunity to participate in business simulations and to learn from top South Carolina business leaders will be an invaluable experience for my future."

Thomas Barkley "Kley" Sippel III, 2007 Business Week Graduate and Ron McNair Leadership Award Winner, Southside Christian School

BUSINESS
WEEK

South Carolina Business Week's purpose is to educate high school students on business and the American free enterprise system.

Loaned executives share their expertise with students in collegiate-caliber lectures and demonstrations.

“Business Week provides the unique opportunity for South Carolina businesses to help grow their future leaders. Investing in student sponsorships is a great way to support our state’s youth.”
 — Jim Reynolds
 Business Week Honorary Chairman
 2010
